It is reported in Columbia that Hon. J. E. Tindal, the present and efficient Secretary of State, may again enter the field as a candidate for Governor. It is said his friends are determined to put him in the race whether he wants to run or not.

Rev. W. D. Kirkland, the editor of the Southern Christian Advocate, was elected Sunday school editor by the Methodist General Conference at Memphis. This will necessitate his removal to Nashville, Tenn., and the election of another editor for the Christian Advocate.

Congressman Talbert has introduced a bill "to enjoin the further issue of bonds by the Secretary of the Treasury and to coin the seigniorage," which amounts to $55,400,000. This, Mr. Talbert thinks, will solve our financial troubles and no doubt it would go a ways in that direction.

An exchange says: There are many people who are not admirers of Gov. Tillman who will be perfectly satisfied with his election to the Senate, because they think he will have so much to occupy his time that he will not be able to do so much devilment in the State.

The Boston Journal of Commerce, which has been watching the southward trend of cotton manufacturing very closely, states that the Southern mills, with few exceptions, are more modern built than those in the North and are filled with the best machinery that could be secured. Most of these mills, says the Journal, have been successful even at the very start, having succeeded in turning out a fine quality of goods at a cost that when sold left a handsome margin for the mills.

At a recent meeting of the Newberry reformers a resolution was offered and adopted to the effect that no caucus be held this year to bring out candidates for the different offices—that they have a free fight and open field, let run who will and be elected who can. That they will put out no caucus ticket on the reform side of the house.

This is a pointer for Edgefield county reformers. Caw-cussing won't meet with any more favor in Edgefield than in Newberry county.

The liquor status in this State is very unfortunate in this: Many of those who favored the dispensary are encouraging blind tigers because of the great contrast in favor of their preference. On the other hand those who opposed the dispensary make no effort to prosecute the blind tigers, for the reason that the very notoriety this gives the present liquor status demonstrates and intensifies the good that was in the dispensary system. So that really both factions are doing all they can to foster the blind tiger iniquity—a very deplorable state of affairs.

A practical joker perpetrated a joke by sending to Senator Quay a nicely bound book entitled on the cover "What Congress is doing." Senator Quay opened it, looked through it, smiled and laughed, then he passed it to Vice President Stevenson who did ditto, and then sent it to Senator Pfeiffer who did ditto, and thus it passed around the Senate and all the grave, etc., seigniors did ditto. They thought it a good joke. But there are lots of people in this country who would relish the joke more if there wasn't quite so much truth in the jest. The book which so excited Senatorial mirth was filled full of blank pages

STRUNG UP.

A Negro Lynched Near Lancaster S. C., Yesterday.

Charleston, S. C., June 3.—Hardy Gill, a colored man was taken by force from the jail in Lancaster this morning, between 1 and 2 o'clock, by a party of twenty-five men and carried away about three miles and lynched.

A coroner's inquest was held over his body and the jury returned a verdict that he was shot to death by parties unknown. Two or three days ago, he without provocation assaulted and inflicted, it is feared, mortal wounds on the wife of Mr. James A. Clark, who is now at the point of death. Mrs. Clark resides with her husband about fourteen miles from the city. While richly meriting his fate it is greatly to be deplored.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Lancaster, June 3.—Hardy Gill, a young negro, about thirty years old, was taken from the jail this morning between 1 and 2 o'clock, by a crowd of men and shot to death, about three miles from town. Gill was in jail for cruelly beating Mrs. James A. Clark, of Cedar Creek Township. On Monday last Gill went to Mr. Clark's premises in his absence and commenced raising a disturbance in the yard. Upon being ordered away by Mrs. Clark, he turned on her with an andiron and beat her unmercifully. He then picked up Mrs. Clark's baby and threw it across the house. Mrs. Clark's injuries are such that she is not expected to live. The little child's injuries are also of a serious nature. The negro was immediately arrested and lodged in jail. Yesterday he was adjudged insane before Trial Justice Burns. This morning, between the hours above mentioned, Jailor Montgomery and his assistant, Mr. Smith were waked by voices on the outside of the jail. On opening the door the jailer saw several men. They said they had a prisoner for him and that the papers were all right. They were admitted. As soon as they keys to the floor above were produced, the supposed prisoner and the others grabbed both Montgomery and Smith, and after disarming them carried them both up where the prisoners were. As soon as they reached Hardy Gill's cell they brought him out and after locking the door securely and offering Montgomery and Smith a pistol away, he told him it would be returned to him. The crowd were heard passing through the town. Search was immediately made for the negro and kept up until 10 o'clock this morning, when he was found about three miles from town in the middle of the road, completely riddled with bullets. The body was brought to town and the inquest held this afternoon by the coroner. The verdict was that the negro came to his death at the hands of parties unknown to the jury. Smith says that none of the parties were disguised and that they were all strangers to Montgomery and himself. He says the crowd was very orderly, but very determined.

John A. Fail, while, under sentence of death for the killing of Brister Baker, was terribly frightened by the visit of the lynchers. He said he knew they would come back to take him out and begged piteously not to be left alone.

Lynching in Mississippi.

DURANT, Miss. June, 4.—Ready Murdoch, charged with having committed rape at Yazoo City, was brought here and placed in jail by the deputy sheriff of that city to keep him from being hanged by a mob, but it was learned by them that he was here, and yesterday morning at an early hour the jail was surrounded and he was taken back to the scene of his crime. Opinion is that he was hanged between this place and Yazoo City.

TAUNTS PROHIBITIONISTS.

BEARDING THE DOUGLAS IN HIS HALL.

Prohibition Does Not Prohibit, He Says—He Thinks the Dispensary is the True Solution.

PROHIBITION PARK, Staten Island, June 4.—Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, presented his State's position on the liquor question to an audience of 2,000 prohibitionists at this evening's session of the International Temperance Congress. The governor's hearers did not agree with him as to the plan, but they listened closely to the end and found some points at which they could applaud without doing violence to their consciences. At other times they loudly expressed their disapproval. Before the arrival of Gov. Tillman, Col. Alexander S. Bacon, of Brooklyn, made an appeal for the raising of $20,000. At this point the electric lights went out and the audience was in total darkness. A score of lanterns were brought in and the guest from South Carolina was led forward in semi-darkness. He was introduced by the Rev. Dr. H. L. Wayland, of Philadelphia. Gov. Tillman began by saying that he wished there were more lights so that he could look the people in the eye and have them look him in the eye and tell whether he was approved.

"I have come a long way and left my official duties, for the truth and the right. I have heard a great deal at the sessions I have attended of 'sind' and 'backbone.' It has been said that I possess these qualities. I will say that I will show here to-night that I am willing to advance my convictions on my audience, and I am going to controvert your dearest ideas and firmest beliefs. I am probably the only politician present. I have been elected governor of a State and I am a candidate for the United States Senate, and expect to be elected.

The governor then went on to say that he was not exactly a politician in the ordinary acceptance of the term. He said that he always spoke his convictions and that was not characteristic of politicians. He said that he was a farmer, that his gubernatorial position was his first office. He announced that he proposed to have his say and if any one in the audience wanted to throw rocks at the governor, he would be glad to receive them. Then, drawing himself to the full height he said in tones that made the rafters ring:

"I am here to-night to tell you that prohibition don't prohibit, and never will prohibit. We have got a plan in South Carolina that completely wipes out saloons and we have done more than you have. Now, I am a temperance man. (Applause.) I never drank five gallons of whiskey, all told, in my life. (Applause.) I sometimes take a social glass with my friends, but I don't like the stuff."

The Governor then produced a bottle of whiskey with the South Carolina label on it. He waved it like a fire brand in the faces of the total abstainers and described the State dispensary plan. He said that prior to the decision of the Supreme Court of the State there was sixty-six dispensaries in operation and the State had paid out $379,000 for liquor; $57,000 for bottles, and $37,000 for labels and other expenses. From the total outlay of $475,000 and with $98,000 worth of liquor on hand, $567,000 worth had been sold and a net profit of $100,000 to the State and $84,000 to the counties had been realized. He said that the quality of whiskey was chemically pure so that the people quit having a debauch when they got drunk on it. A moment later he said people did not get drunk on dispensary whiskey, they got drunk on blind tiger whiskey which, he said they hid in holes in the ground or "toted" in their boot legs. He stirred up the audience by declaring that prohibition would never be established by votes. "Give us a chance," said a man in the front. This brought a volley of applause. When the Governor shouted, "You are not ready to remove the Government tax on whiskey."

"Yes we are," came from all parts of the hall.

"Then you are blinder than I thought you were," said the Governor.

A moment later he alluded to prohibition narrow mindedness, and complained that the audience would only go half way with him. Then he said, "Before you are a dozen years older you will see half the States in the Union following the example of South Carolina."

"Never," shouted a woman delegate.

"If you can't get prohibition will you take the dispensary?" asked the Governor.

There were a hundred noes and one man in the back of the hall said yes.

That is, assuring, said the Governor. He said that in all the country of South Carolina and nearly all the towns sentiment is in favor of the dispensary law; it will be carried out eventually.

He went on "So far as backbone is concerned I have as much as any other man, but when you tackle the liquor trade entrenched behind its hundreds of millions you need to have the backbone of the Statue of Liberty."

SAM JONES ON POLITICS.

Why Some Men are Rich and Others are Poor.

The Nelsons World.

"Third Party, or party of the Third Party, or whatever you call it, may get to Heaven, but they'll never go to Washington. It's not on the way. Washington is the wickedest place on earth. It is the home of the devil. The average Democrat and Republican politicians are little better than rascals, but the Third Party man is a fool. You can reform a rascal, but did you ever undertake to monkey with a fool?"

"They want to borrow money from the Government at 2 per cent when the Government is now borrowing it at 5. We hear a great deal of fools talk about the rich getting richer and the poor poorer under our present laws. There never was a greater lie, and I'll prove it."

He cited the cases of Vanderbilt, Stewart, Gould, Carnegie, and others, all of whom had started from humble beginnings.

"There's nothing the matter with the law. It's the man that's at fault. There's a lawyer on that side of the House who makes $20,000 a year. Here's a little pettifogger whose family is starving. The law is not to blame. It's the man himself. Here's a physician making $10,000 a year. There's a little doctor over in the other corner can't make his salt. The law is not to blame. I preach nearly every day to 8,000 people, and there's a little preacher sitting behind me who can't average 200. The trouble is not in the law, brother, it's in your noggin."

"The difference is organic. If all the wealth of the United States were divided out to-day each man would get about $1,160 and in less than six months some fellows would be riding in palace cars and the others would be walking cross-ways and howling for another day."

Mistakes About Abstainers.

The Contemporary Review.

I have never asserted anything so wrong and so foolish as that it is a sin to drink wine; nor have I ever been so uncharitable, and gone so far beyond my legitimate warrant, as to have pronounced a syllable of condemnation against those who, in the somewhat clumsy nomenclature of this controversy, are called "moderate drinkers." If there are any who adopt such language I can only say that I have never once heard it used at any temperance meeting either of the higher or lower classes. But, granted that many foolish and inconsiderate things are said upon this subject, I ask whether there is any controversy which is not discredited by the bearing and methods of some of its partisans? And is no nonsense talked and are no brutalities or vulgarities of abuse resorted to by those who take the other side?

How often, for instance, have we been told that total abstainers are poor, weak, unbalanced creatures, who, being unable to protect themselves from drunkenness, try by all sorts of nonsense, folly, and tyranny to rob their neighbors of a harmless and beneficial indulgence? Into all these amenities I refuse to enter. If it is foolish and wrong to denounce all use of fermented liquors as a sin, it is no less foolish and wrong to speak of total abstinence from them as a Manichean condemnation of "a good creature of God." "A good creature of God?" I have heard Sir Wilfred Lawson say. "Of course it is! So is a tiger. But one does not want a tiger in one's bedroom."

No modest-abstainer would claim his abstinence as a virtue, or pharisaically pride himself upon it; but it is at least an equal absurdity to speak of the use of beer and wine as though the self-gratification involved in drinking them were a virtue which entitles the "moderate drinker" to look down upon his neighbor from an indefinite altitude of superiority. And surely a sufficient number of men pre-eminent goodness, learning, and wisdom, in all ages and countries—from the days of Pythagoras down to those of John the Baptist, and through all the Christian ages—have been more or less absolute abstainers, to prove that the practice can neither be injurious nor absurd.

FRAUD AND THE MAIL.

Important Conviction in the U. S. District Court at Charleston.

An important and interesting case was tried in the United States court at Charleston, Judge Brawley presiding, on the 17th of May, involving the suppression, for the present at least, of a proposed forger who has also served a term in the penitentiary for forgery; and also involving the principle that the United States mail cannot be used for the purpose of fraud, even if the perpetrator may not finally consummate his schemes and become the beneficiary of his fraud, or proposed fraud.

One F. A. Blackwood, writing over the fictitious signature of W. D. Morris, Sr., addressed the American Bank Note Company at New York asking them to furnish him with a supply of Southern Express money orders. He alleged that his uncle was an agent of the Southern Express Company, and had lost a lot of money orders, and they were ashamed to acknowledge their carelessness to the company, and desired to replace them, and wished to have prices quoted by the hundred, the object being to obtain a supply of blank money orders by this subterfuge.

At the same time, he was negotiating by mail with the Cole Printing Company of Sanford, N. C., with a view to obtaining checks on sundry banks and letter heads with the name of C. L. Loop, general auditor, Southern Express Company printed thereon.

The American Bank Note Company promptly referred the correspondence received by them to General Auditor Loop of the Southern Express Company, who placed the matter in the hands of Route Agent A. M. Richardson of the same company, at Columbia, who succeeded in locating the alleged W. D. Morris as one F. A. Blackwood. Blackwood was arrested upon a warrant sworn out by F. D. Peer, postoffice inspector, who rendered material service in working up and prosecuting the case.

Blackwood, was taken before the United States commissioner in Charleston and committed for trial. The witnesses against Blackwood were T. H. Lee of the American Bank Note Company of New York, the general auditor of the Southern Express Company, Route Agent Richardson of the same company, the Deputy United States marshal who made the arrest with search warrant, the postmaster at Barnwell, S. C., and others.

The guilt of Blackwood was established so clearly that there could be no doubt whatever. Blackwood was prosecuted by United States District Attorney Murphy, and his able assistants, Messrs. Wood and Hughes. A very forcible argument was made in the case by District Attorney Murphy. Blackwood was ably defended by R. Withers Memminger of the Charleston bar.

An able and elaborate charge was delivered by Judge Brawley, in which the law of the case was carefully set forth, and the duty of the jury in the consideration of the evidence, and the applicability of the law set forth. The jury, after retiring for a short time, returned a verdict of guilty. Blackwood was sentenced by Judge Brawley to imprisonment in the Columbus, O., penitentiary for a term of one year and one month, and to pay a fine of $500.

Senator A. T. Smythe, of Charleston, has tendered his resignation to Hon. W. H. Timmerman president of the Senate. It is reported that Senator Smythe resigns his seat in the upper House so as to enter the race for Congress without being hampered in the coming campaign. We see, however, that Senator Smythe denies the soft impeachment—not a candidate.
